

They're back... and this time it's, smaller?

You are warmly invited to a launch of the 'Field Guide to Wildlife of the Australian Snow Country', written by alpine ecologists Ken Green and Will Osborne.

Fifteen years in the making, the book updates the first edition and includes information based on many years of research by the authors and others and yes, this time it's smaller, but only in size.

The book contains detailed descriptions of the mammals, birds, reptiles, frogs, fish, insects and other invertebrates, including their distribution, breeding, food and habits. While this book is primarily concerned with wildlife, the authors place considerable emphasis on animal habitats and include information about the ecology of snow and the likely effects of climate change on the Australian snow country.

The book will be launched at the Kosciuszko Education Centre on National Threatened Species Day 2012 by Dane Wimbush, pioneer alpine researcher and co-author of 'Kosciuszko Alpine Flora'.
